

OKLAHOMA ASSOCIATION OF HOMES AND SERVICES FOR THE AGING

Program Overview

Did you know F-Tags 241 (Dignity) and 246 (Accommodation of Needs) continue to make the top ten list of cites? Join us for training on the upcoming revisions made to the interpretive guidelines for several quality of life tags. These changes are in response to the results of the 2008 Environment Symposium sponsored by CMS and the Pioneer Network and are intended to provide clarification regarding: F172, F175, F241, F242, F246, F247, F252, F461, F256 and F463. The training also provides valuable information to keep participants abreast of key person-centered care issues and features a crosswalk between the old and new interpretive guidelines. Participants will learn how to evaluate and modify existing care practices to assure regulatory compliance. To order, please click here.

Objectives

- Define the rationale and importance of the recent changes to surveyor guidance.
- Identify the impact these changes have on resident's quality of life.
- Describe concrete, practical steps to assuring compliance.
